WELCOME:

Women's Rights Turn the Tide

AIDS 2012 marks a critical point in the history of HIV. As stated in the theme, Turning the Tide Together, we now have the science to curb HIV. To realize the promise, we need the political will and adequate dedicated resources to fulfill our human rights, to ensure that women and girls living with and affected by HIV live a life of dignity and respect, and to stop new infections. This is our chance to call on advocates, researchers, and decision-makers, including people living with HIV to advance gender equality and human rights, and to strengthen the leadership and meaningful participation of women and girls, particularly the most affected, in the global response to HIV. For the U.S., AIDS 2012 provides an opportunity to better address poverty, inadequate health care, gender-based violence, transphobia, homophobia, structural racism, and other drivers that fuel the U.S. epidemic.

We call for Women's Rights To Turn the Tide! at AIDS 2012.

About the organizations involved

U.S. Positive Women's Network

U.S. Positive Women's Network, a project of WORLD, believes in upholding ALL human rights for ALL women, including transgender women. As a national network of women living with HIV and our allies, we inspire, inform, and mobilize HIV-positive women to advocate for changes that improve the quality of our lives and our communities. PWN is committed to developing a diverse leadership pipeline of women living with HIV and a policy agenda that applies a gender lens to the domestic epidemic grounded in social justice and human rights. www.pwn-usa.org

ATHENA Network

The ATHENA Network was created to advance gender equity and human rights in the global response to HIV and AIDS. Because gender inequity fuels HIV and HIV fuels gender inequity, it is imperative that women and girls—particularly those living with HIV - speak out, set priorities for action and lead the response. The Barcelona Bill of Rights, promulgated by partners at AIDS 2002 is ATHENA's framework for action.

www.athenanetwork.org

International Community of Women Living with HIV

ICW Global was created in 1992 by and for women living with HIV who sought to increase the visibility of women living with HIV within the global response to HIV and AIDS and to ensure that we are equal partners in all decisions, which impact our lives. ICW Global envisions a world where all women living with HIV know and exercise their rights to health, including sexual and reproductive health, and dignity. ICW Global is the only global network of women, young women, girls, and adolescents living with HIV across the five continents. www.icwglobal.org

CHANGE

The Center for Health and Gender Equity (CHANGE) believes that every individual has the right to basic information, technologies, and services needed to enjoy a healthy and safe sexual and reproductive life free from coercion and preventable illness. CHANGE envisions a world where sexual and reproductive health and rights are universally recognized and sexual and reproductive health care is accessible and available to all.

Women's Networking Zone at AIDS 2012

Building upon over a decade of collaboration between HIV and gender groups, the WNZ is a vibrant, inclusive, and exciting space where community members, advocates, policy-analysts, decision-makers, service-providers, and researchers share and learn. The WNZ is a community-focused forum running parallel to the IAC with a full program of workshops, "meet the leader" forums, strategy sessions, and performance art. We aim to be the heart of women's rights organizing and movement building at AIDS 2012 and beyond.

About this guide

This guide is focused primarily on sessions of interest to women and girls, including transgender women and girls. Because AIDS 2012 takes place in Washington, D.C. this year the guide includes a secondary focus on critical issues in the U.S. epidemic.

Acknowledgements

As one of two U.S. community partners for AIDS 2012, U.S. Positive Women's Network appreciates the ATHENA Network, International Community of Women Living with HIV, the Make Women Count! Campaign, CHANGE, and the organizers of the Women's Networking Zone for their leadership and co-sponsorship of this Delegate's Guide. Thank you to the Ford Foundation, the MAC AIDS Fund, and the International AIDS Society for their financial support of this publication. We are thankful to Design Action Collective and Jane Shepherd for their beautiful design work and passion to create this vibrant roadmap to AIDS 2012. Most of all, we express our deep gratitude and love for the thousands of women and girls living with HIV across the world who raise their voices for change.

Please note that this guide was prepared in mid-June. Please reference the full conference programme to to identify late breaker abstract sessions, other additions, or changes.

As one of two U.S. Community Partners for AIDS 2012, the U.S. Positive Women's Network, a project of WORLD, welcomes the thousands of strong and vibrant women from around the globe to Washington D.C.! The U.S. has many strengths: diversity, strong anti-discrimination laws, and freedom of speech. But not all of our people have the privilege of experiencing these attributes first hand due to stark and persistent disparities in our country based on income inequality, race, gender, sexual orientation, and disability.

In the U.S., 1 out of every 4 people living with HIV is a woman. Women in the Deep South and Northeast U.S., especially women of color, are disproportionately impacted. 2011 data indicates that people of color and women face particular barriers in accessing care and are less likely to have access to life-saving medications. Poverty, gender inequality, gender-based violence, inadequate health care systems, transphobia, homophobia, and racism fuel the HIV epidemic among women. As a result, HIV-positive women in the U.S. have higher death rates, higher rates of hospitalization, and experience more than twice as many HIV-related and AIDS-defining illnesses per person than their male counterparts.

This is unacceptable.

AIDS 2012 can be a turning point in HIV history. While the U.S. Positive Women's Network is a proud community partner of AIDS 2012, we demand that women not be ignored and that HIV stigma be proactively addressed at every level of the HIV response. We are committed to ensuring that all research and policies are informed by women living with HIV and are responsive to all women's full rights.

We demand:

1. Meaningful and visible leadership of women living with HIV;
2. Research on women-controlled prevention options that uphold our sexual and reproductive rights; and
3. Bold action, including a plan and a timeline from the White House Office of National AIDS Policy to address the intersections between violence against women, HIV, and women's health outcomes.

Women's Rights: Turn The Tide

A Women's Networking Zone at AIDS2012

The WNZ promotes dialogue, forges new networks, raises the visibility of HIV, champions the leadership of women living with HIV (with an emphasis on young women and women from the local community), and promotes the global exchange of experiences, abilities, and knowledge. The WNZ is a community-focused forum running parallel to the IAC with a full program of workshops, "meet the leader" forums, strategy sessions, and performance art. We aim to be the heart of women's rights organizing and movement building at AIDS 2012 and beyond.

The Women's Networking Zone is located in the Global Village in booth 823 adjacent to the food court.

Note on the set-up of the WNZ@AIDS2012

The WNZ@AIDS2012 is a larger space than we have had in previous years. This has enabled us to create multiple spaces within the zone, and there will be some parallel programming. The WNZ is divided into the following 3 areas, where sessions will be taking place (Note: these refer to spaces within the WNZ – not other areas of the Global Village):

- Main stage
- Annex
- "Market Place" (Note: this is an area to showcase work, not to sell items. No selling of food or other goods is allowed anywhere in the WNZ.)

Self-Care at AIDS 2012

"Self-care is not self-indulgence, it's self-preservation and that is an act of political warfare." —Audre Lorde

Self-care Tips:

Hydrate! Don't forget to pack your water & stay hydrated!

Practice some heart-centered breathing. Close your eyes. Focus on your breath. Imagine breathing in and out from your heart. Remember a time when you felt really peaceful. Open your eyes. Now you're refreshed and ready to go!

Get your groove on! Listen to your favorite song and have a mini-dance break.

Pause. Think of 3 things in this moment that you are grateful for.

Take a walk. Notice the trees. Feel the air. Enjoy the sun. Appreciate your legs and your body. Smile at random strangers or kids.

Share the love. Tell someone one thing you appreciate about them.
